

U. S. AWAITING FIRST STEPS IN DEBT QUESTION

Think Powers Will Ask America
To Attend Conference In Paris, January 2

HUGHES FROWNS AT RUMORS
Government Ready To Give Advice—Move Of Business Men Unofficial

Washington—When the Allied Premiers meet in Paris on Jan. 2, they will in all probability invite the United States government to help solve the economic situation of Europe. Possibly an American diplomatic representative may be summoned to attend
the meeting.

But it is becoming more and more apparent that the initiative must come from European governments as the United States doesn't want to be placed in the position of assuming responsibility for the execution of its suggestions nor does it want to be forced into the position of having tried to dictate to Europe.

This explains to some extent the reluctance of Secretary Hughes in replying to the story that a commission of American business men were to act with the government in trying to fit
the amount of German indemnity.
Mr. Hughes was perturbed today because some of the press reports took
this statement as the usual "diplomatic denial." The plan to have a commission of American business men
cooperate in fixing the sum that Germany can pay has many sponsors here
and business men of prominence are trying to get the government and European governments to assent to it but the department of state is not connected with the proposal either officially or unofficially any more than it was with J. P. Morgan's visit to Paris last June and the meetings of the International Bankers committee.
It is an interested onlooker but not a promoter of these plans.

FEELING ITS WAY
The truth is the United States government is feeling its way. Thus far it has not done any more than make plain informally to the European governments that it stands ready to help them with its influence and advice whenever it shall be sought.
This in itself is a step forward because Europe has been clamoring for three years for American help and has pointed to the number of invitations
which have gone unaccepted.

What America wants Europe to understand now is that the United States will sit in the councils of Europe and discuss these matters. The thought of an international economic conference still is in the minds of many governments but it may be said at this stage of the proceedings
that the United States will not call it.
There are certain obligations imposed on the host to lay down a program
and to set forth what can be done
by the nation calling the conference.
An illustration of this was the naval armament conference a year ago
when America felt compelled to announce its own sacrifice at the very beginning. Europe would expect the United States to announce how much of the Allied war debt would be cancelled or whether the interest would be forgiven or some such concrete suggestion for a solution of the whole problem.

WANTS CONFERENCE
What the United States government would like to see is a conference either of premiers or ambassadors which would bring to the front
all the abuses of the European economic situation and America would be ready to give advice along with the other governments. It will be recalled that when the premiers met in London recently they reached a deadlock and decided to postpone their meeting until Jan. 2, with the understanding that in the interval informal approaches would be made to Ambassador Harvey to see what the American government would suggest.
It has already been told from London
that Mr. Harvey informed the Allies
he believed America was opposed to the invasion of Ruhr. This has been confirmed by dispatches from this side of the Atlantic. Whatever the Allies said to Mr. Harvey was deemed of such importance that President Harding and Secretary
Hughes decided to call him to Washington for a personal conference.

ALL TALK PREMATURE
But until Europe asks for American advice formally, all talk of an American plan to solve Europe's ills must be considered as premature. Secretary Hughes is afraid that the press reports will give the impression
abroad that the United States stands ready to do a great many things which American opinion as well as sound business judgment might not approve.

Already there has been a somewhat unfavorable reaction from France to the earlier press reports from America which were predicated on unwarranted assumptions. For diplomacy ake and for ultimate success in the negotiations with the American government would like to have European governments ask the United States for advice and suggestions. The United States government had made known its readiness to receive them
and to help in whatever way it can.
The moves must be made through the moves must come from Europe
the next few days.

RUSH MORE TROOPS TO KIDNAPING CENTER

GUARDS CAUSE OF MINE RIOT, WITNESSES SAY

Threw Countryside Into Terror
—Shot Union Miners, Declare Three On Stand

By Associated Press
Marion, Ill.—The terrorizing of a peaceful countryside, abuse of law-abiding citizens and, finally, the killing of an unarmed union miner, were charged against the armed guards at the Lester mine by witnesses for the defense Saturday at the trial of five men charged with murder in connection with the Herrin riot. Only two witnesses for the defense were heard
at the morning session and the cross examination of a third held over from Friday, completed when court
recessed over the holidays to reconvene Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Edward Crenshaw, defense witness who related circumstances of the death of the first union miner, Jody Henderson, Saturday faced a continuation of cross examination by attorneys for the state, prosecuting five men charged with murder during the Herrin riots.

SAW MINER FALL
On direct examination Crenshaw
testified he was in front of his home,
about a half mile from the mine,
when he saw Henderson fall after being struck by a bullet from the direction of the mine. He said Henderson was unarmed.

Crenshaw also said he was working in Herrin June 21 and that some one told him he had better go home and that a crowd of about a hundred armed men passed his house going toward the mine about 2 o'clock that afternoon.

"Didn't they make your house a headquarter in attacking the mine?"
"Well, there was shooting and bullets came from the mine toward my house and I saw Henderson fall."

CROWD GROWS
After Henderson was shot, Crenshaw testified that the crowd increased to about 500 persons, fifty of whom bore arms.

George Dangar, 30, testified that he had a farm near the Lester mine
and that the mine reservoir was near-
by. He said everything was quiet until the armed guards came into the area and began using his private road
to get water. He said the guards traveled in groups, armed and that he complained to the sheriff. He said two of the guards had threatened
him and told him "if you had refused us water, you'd be the first one we'd plug if a riot started."

Oscar Dangar, son of the previous witness, testified that the mine guards
on their trips to the reservoir, disturbed his family and threw cigars
on the property. He said he saw Henderson shot the afternoon of June 21 but did not see Henderson
with any arms.

GRANT PARDON TO JOSEPH O'NEILL

Madison—Joseph O'Neill, former federal prohibition director of Wisconsin and Democratic leader of this state, sentenced to prison for violation of the Volstead act, has been granted a parole by the state board of control, subject to approval by Governor Blaine and by Attorney General Daugherty.
The board let it be known Saturday
that, if released, he will be brought under a federal statute which permits the state to parole federal prisoners confined in a state institution. O'Neill is now in the Milwaukee house of correction.

POPE PLANNING MEETING OF CATHOLIC EPISCOPACY

Rome—The probability that the Pope will call a meeting of the entire Catholic episcopacy in Rome during the next jubilee year was announced in the papal encyclical issued Saturday. Such a meeting would be a continuation of the ecumenical council which was held in Rome in 1870.

2 DAYS TILL
CHRISTMAS

TODAY'S LAST OF SHOPPING DAYS
EER CHRISTMAS MORN ARRIVES.
SO BUY TO MAKE THAT HOLIDAY
A TENT IN CHILDREN'S LIVES

Good Fellows Make City's Poor Happy

To the Good Fellows of Appleton:
With the first streak of dawn on Monday morning some two or three thousand youngsters in more nearly 4,000 Appleton homes will leap wildly out of their beds and rush madly to the place where the night before they hung their stockings for the long awaited visit from Santa Claus.
What a moment in their young lives!
What a babble of excited tongues and joyous exclamations! It is the climax of weeks and even months of expectations. None of us are so old or so world-weary that this joyous-ness of youth does not reach to us and we soon find ourselves joining with the kids in enjoying the good things that a kindly fortune has permitted us.

Christmas always has been and probably will be the biggest day of the year for the youngsters. Rich or poor, they are looking forward to the next visit of Santa Claus. For the children of the rich it means more luxuries, more of the good things of life; for the poor it means warm clothing, a few toys
perhaps, but mostly the things they need to keep them warm and comfortable.

Each year there is organized in Appleton a group of men and women whose purpose it is to provide the children of the poor with a Santa Claus; to make sure that they have the birthright of all children—a Merry Christmas. Appleton has too large a heart to permit any of its tiny, helpless citizens to pass a Christmas with at least something to be happy over, and so its Good Fellows band together and out of the plentifulness of their means they help
those who cannot help themselves.

There is a great satisfaction in that kind of spirit. Good Fellows will get a keener enjoyment out of Christmas
for the knowledge that they have made someone else happy. All of us will enjoy Christmas more because we know that through the efforts of the Good Fellows, even the poorest
of the poor will be cared for.

The Good Fellows have done their work well. The contributions in money perhaps do not quite reach the amount they set out to raise but the contributions of clothing, of toys and of food make up the difference. Not a single poor family will be missed;
every child in every home will be remembered on Christmas day.

It is impossible for every recipient of Good Fellows' bounty to thank every Good Fellow personally for this part he took in making their Christmas happy. But Good Fellows may be assured that gratitude will not be lacking. It is said that the ear of the Creator is attuned more closely to the prayers of unfortunates to whom the world turns a deaf ear and if that is so the Good Fellows may be sure of a reward, for the gratitude
of those whose life has been made brighter by a Good Fellow's help will find higher expression than mere words.

Good Fellows are deserving of a Merry Christmas. They have performed their big task well. Christmas will be merrier for them and for the poor they have helped because they are good Good Fellows, and no
higher tribute than that can be paid
to any man.

Baltimore, Md.—Discovery has been made of one of the five dollar
bills stolen by bandits in the raid on the United States Federal Reserve bank truck at Denver last Monday.
Police officials here declared.
The bill was passed at a downtown restaurant Friday night. It was declared.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS

BLAMES EUROPE FOR 12-HOUR DAY

Judge Gary For 8-Hour Shift,
He Says, But Competition
Makes It Impossible

Chicago—Eventual abolishment of the 12-hour day in the steel industry is hoped for by Judge Elliott H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, but Germany and France are going back to the two shifts a day system and there is agitation to the same end in England in order to compete with American steel, he said
in an interview authorized by him.

The steel corporation did reduce its 12-hour workers to 14 per cent but to adopt generally the 8-hour day will entail staggering losses or an increase in steel prices which would be a bad thing for the steel industry and the country.

"We are not making enough now
to pay our dividends on common stock," he said. "They are paid in part from surplus. With such an added expense as the 8-hour day
must necessarily entail, we would face severe losses or increase in price which would be likely to have a most depressing effect upon all building
and many other lines of industry."

More labor is needed, and Judge Gary advocated increased immigration but with stricter regard for quality than to quantity.

APPLETON ALL SET TO ENJOY YULE HOLIDAY

Christmas Spirit Fills City As Business Suspends For Feast Day

Appleton tomorrow will rest up for the Christmas celebration on Monday.
Hundreds of persons whose exertions
the last week before Christmas make them so tired that they cannot enjoy
the holiday will be refreshed by the day of rest so that Christmas for them will be a happier day.

Today ends one of the greatest shopping spectacles in the city's history. For nearly two weeks the stores have been crowded and this last week sales in several stores exceeded all previous records. It was a great year for the merchants and that means that their customers are enjoying prosperity.

The weatherman predicts that the mild weather which we have enjoyed the last few days will continue at least until after Christmas. He hints
a little at snow but says the temperature will be moderate.

Churches have prepared elaborate programs for this year's holiday observance. Children have been reserved for weeks for the programs
they will present on Monday in honor of the Nativity of the Saviour. Special music will be offered in practically every church in Appleton.

Not the least of Appleton's pre-Christmas activities has been its solitary for its poor. The Good Fellows banded together and provided almost $1,500 in money and several hundred dollars worth of clothing, toys and food for unfortunate families so that there will be no one in Appleton without a real Christmas. Relief workers say that because of the Good Fellows' splendid response to appeals for their help there will be less distress in Appleton than on any Christmas day in years.

In keeping with the usual custom
many employers are giving Christmas gifts to their employees. These take the form of bonuses, pay for the two days of vacation, gifts of men, fowl, cigars for the men and candy for the women.

Christmas finds Appleton singularly free from labor disturbances of every kind. There is employment for nearly everyone and there appears to be a general satisfaction with conditions. There is a general friendliness in the city which indicates that Appleton will enjoy a real Christmas, unclouded by strife and bickering of any sort.

Governor Grants Pardon To Fifth Member Of Kenosha
Booze Ring

By Associated Press

ber of the Kenosha liquor ring uncovered by a grand jury investigation late in 1921, was given a Christmas pardon Saturday by Governor J. J. Blaine, his term to expire at noon Saturday. Four other members of this group, convicted for violation of the state prohibition law,
were released on Thanksgiving day
by executive action.

An absolute pardon was granted
John Lawver, Ashland, by Governor Blaine. He was convicted Nov.
25, 1922 for violation of the game
laws and sentenced to one month in jail in default of payment of a $60 fine. Governor Blaine said that there was no reason why he should stay in jail longer since his family is in straightened circumstances.

EXONERATES PASTOR OF POISON BLAME

District Attorney Flays Relatives For Making Charges
In The Press

By Associated Press
Superior, Wis.—District Attorney
Robert E. Kennedy of Douglas co.
Saturday morning issued a statement
declaring in his opinion there was no reason to believe that Clara Rath-well Cowley, wife of the Rev. Griffith Cowley, Solon Springs, Wis., died on Aug. 11, 1922, of any other than natural causes. Relatives have charged she died from poison.

Investigations by himself and the sheriff of Douglas county have failed to reveal anything indicating that foul play occurred, declares the district attorney who criticizes relatives of Mrs. Cowley for making public alleged information in their possession
to newspapers at Chicago and Gary instead of directly to the authorities
of the county wherein the alleged crime was committed.

In his statement Attorney Kennedy
says:

"I have never had any reason to believe that Rev. Cowley committed any crime in this county or any place else. He has not been under surveillance at any time. I have not consulted him in the matter and in fact I do not know him. Any inconvenience, annoyance or humiliation
that he has suffered very much regret but neither the sheriff nor myself are responsible for it. If murder was committed at Solon Springs
it would appear that the relatives and interested parties should give their information directly to the district attorney and sheriff rather than to convey the same through the press.

DRY AGENTS RAID TWO PARLORS IN ASHLAND

Ashland—Federal prohibition agents
raided two soft drink places Friday

moonshine in each. They arrested Dan Moden and Paul Hommers on

men were arraigned in Circuit court

FIND LITTLE NEW EVIDENCE IN DEATH OF KAUKAUNA BABY

Prosecutor Declines To Discuss
Information Obtained In Investigation

District Attorney Fred V. Heinmann Saturday morning declined to discuss the result of his investigation into the death of the infant daughter of Elita Burk whose body was found buried under a chicken coop in the back yard of her parents' home at Kaukauna. Mr. Heinemann and Deputy Attorney Robert J. Lonedorf, accompanied by stenographers,
interviewed a number of persons connected with the case but this morning they would not discuss what they had learned.

It is said, however, that little information was obtained. The child apparently died eight or nine days
after birth and was buried by the mother's parents in the back yard of their home. The death was discovered when a physician inquired concerning the child and was told that it had died. It is said the physicians were inclined to believe that starvation caused the death of the infant.

IDENTIFY BODIES

Mer Rouge, La.—The wire bound and mutilated bodies of two men recovered Friday in Lake LaFourche by state troops, believed to be those of Watt Daniels and Thomas Richards,
who disappeared after being kidnaped
by masked and white-robed men last August, were further identified Saturday morning when viewed by Richards' widow, J. L. Daniels, father of Watt and a score of other relatives and friends.

Identification of at least Watt Daniels is complete, according to authorities, because of the initials "W. D."
found on a belt buckle Daniels is said
to have worn at the time he was spirited away.

The bodies are lying in the Jackson temple, where they are guarded by a detachment of Monroe National guard.
The guards are armed with automatic rifles and were instructed by Captain Cooper to shoot persons who may attempt to spirit away the bodies.

The inquest probably will be held late Saturday afternoon according to advice received here from Dr. Paterson, Parish coroner, who returned to Bastrop.

KIRK, MICHIGAN FOOTBALLER, DIES

By Associated Press
Ypsilanti, Mich.—Bernard Kirk,
star University of Michigan football player and chosen as an all-American end this year, died Saturday at a hospital here from injuries received in an automobile accident last Sunday.
Kirk's skull was fractured.

Kirk, whose home was in this city,
was injured when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a telephone pole. The injury to his skull resulted in meningitis which Michigan varsity football player and captain of the Michigan 1921 baseball team, was in the automobile with Kirk, but escaped injury.

Kirk in addition to being chosen on the all-American team this year, was selected as an end on the mythical
all-conference and all-western eleven.
He was regarded as one of the best flankers in the country during recent years, being especially adept in receiving forward passes.

Wells was found guilty of cruelty and

CAN'T DIE HERE, TOO HARD
As I was walking along Wednesday evening I saw a man come out of a building and walk alone rather wobbly. It was plain that he was under the influence of liquor. After walking a ways he sat down against a tree and began to deliver a sermon but he stopped when he saw several people gathered around him, and said "I'm going to lie down and die."

CAN'T READ MUDDY LICENSE
A driver of a car which was covered with mud ran into the dinky at the corner of North and Barkinets on Friday and turned west. A farmer yelled at the horses to stop but they kept on going. Three young men who realized the danger to pedestrians ran after the team and caught the horses before they reached the railroad track. The driver then backed to the market place and the owner who had discovered his loss said "Thanks boys. Some day I'll do a good turn for you."

MANY THANKS, BOYS
A team which had been left in the market place back of Glendenn's store broke loose at 5:30 Thursday afternoon and ran out on College and turned west. A farmer yelled at the horses to stop but they kept on going. Three young men who realized the danger to pedestrians ran after the team and caught the horses before they reached the railroad track. The driver then backed to the market place and the owner who had discovered his loss said "Thanks boys. Some day I'll do a good turn for you."

NICE BREAKFAST FOR DOG
Wednesday morning I spied a big shaggy dog sneak up to the front porch of a house where the milkman had just left a bottle of milk. The dog fumbled at the cap of the bottle until he had pushed it in then he began lapping up the milk out of the bottle.

USES WHIP ON BAD BOYS
Just outside the city limits on the Neenah road two small boys caught a bob and began pelting the driver with snow balls. When some of the snow hit his neck the driver turned around and flourished his whip. The boys then left the bob and ran away.

STEALS JUST THE KEY
Friday morning I was in Pettibone's store and noticed a boy examining the skates very intently. Finally he turned the key from one pair looked furtively around and pocketed the key. After leisurely leaving the counter he hurried from the store.

SPILED RIBBISH
A truck loaded with rubbish was moving in front of the Sherman house Wednesday when several boxes slipped off and their contents were scattered along the street. A fireman came out with a shovel to help pick up the refuse.

LANDED IN PUDDLE
While riding South on Onelda street I saw a boy riding a bicycle. His front wheel got stuck in the car track and consequently he was thrown from his bicycle onto the street. He landed in a slushy puddle. It happened in front of the Appleton Theater about 6 o'clock Thursday evening.

And what the stage could never do—the screen can do. Things that can only be described on the stage are shown magnificently on the screen.
Scenes include the greatest cyclone ever staged, in which actually a whole town is blown away, only the Old Homestead standing secure. Other great scenes show Reuben's trio around the world—into China's secret dens and through a hundred adventures.

RAILROAD TRAFFIC BACK TO NORMAL; TRAVEL GAINING

Movement Of Pulpwood Delayed
This Year Due To Weather Conditions

Freight traffic is rapidly assuming its normal condition and box and refrigerator cars are very scarce, according to W. B. Basing, station agent of the Northwestern railroad. At this time of the year there is usually heavy traffic in saw logs and pulpwood. This movement usually begins about the middle of December, but owing to the lack of snow and cold weather, it has been delayed somewhat.

Since the drop in temperature last week and a slight snowfall, ice skidding in the timber regions has become easier, and a noticeable increase in shipment of logs has resulted. It is not expected the heavy movement will begin until the latter part of January, however.

Three weeks ago there was a heavy movement of carload lots of Christmas trees to eastern points, but that has ceased, and the movement of logs and pulpwood is expected to make up the largest part of freight traffic for the next two months.

Passenger traffic which was light during the fall due to fine weather which made auto driving possible, as now heavy owing to the arrival of the holidays. Indications are it will continue heavy until spring especially if there is much snow and cold weather.

There is the usual exodus of people to Florida and California. So far during the month of December the number of persons leaving Appleton for these sunny climes has averaged eight a week, according to Mr. Basing.

ADD 500 FLAT CARS TO C. & N. W. LINES

Five-hundred steel flat cars built last month have been purchased by the Chicago & Northwestern railroad for use on the Upper Peninsula and Ashland divisions, especially in the timber and forest products trade. A large consignment for the peninsula division has been received in the Escanaba yards.

The cars are of all-steel construction and are 42 feet long, a foot longer than the older steel cars in use. They are also about six inches lower than the previous models. Sturdily built, they are equipped with all the latest devices for safe and expeditious handling.

Inflated Wages May Prove Boomerang; Public Is Not Buying Goods At Any Price

Babson Says Present Stiffening
Of Conditions Is Only An Eddy
In Long Swing Toward Lower Prices

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—Commenting on the present scarcity of skilled labor in certain lines, Roger W. Babson has issued a distinct warning to both executives and investors who would base future plans on present conditions.

"The last six months of 1922 have been marked by a scarcity of labor in many lines," says Mr. Babson. "The particularly common labor and the skilled building trades. Employment conditions the country over have improved in these months. There has, therefore, been a general tendency on the part of labor to seek increased wages, and on the part of employers, even when they did not see the way clear to raise wages, to consent to their stabilization at the present or preceding levels. This situation is likely to continue for the first six months of 1923, going far enough to cover the usual wage settlements which come up in the spring.

MUST STUDY DEMANDS
"Employers, therefore, are going to be confronted with demands which, if granted, will of necessity mean increased production costs. In 1917 and 1918 we were in a similar position. Labor was getting scarce; business was running along briskly; and the demand for increased wages was insistent. At that time, my advice to business men was that they should make terms with labor as quickly as possible, so as to keep their factories running and turn out the stuff. The costs were to be charged up to the consumer. This advice, the business men of the country cheerfully took, even to the extent of improving upon it.

"At the present time, my advice is directly opposite. Under no conditions should wage rates be increased, if it is at all possible to avoid it. A wage rate, once established, is a milestone about the employer's neck. The fundamental long swing tendency of wages and of commodities is downward. This present stiffening of conditions is but an eddy in the main stream. A year from now, perhaps, the lower price tendency will again be resumed. The prizes are going to be curtailed. Your normal margin of profit in the years just ahead of us is going to be very much less than it has been for the last five years. Any element, therefore, which tends to increase production costs is going to add to the embarrassment of your company. For this reason investors are going to look beyond the advertisements as to the assets and income and things of like kind. They are going to ask to see your wage sheets and to demand information as to how the wage levels under which you are operating correspond with those of six months and a year ago. This is a perfectly legitimate question and upon the answer it will depend not only the profits which you will make in 1923 but also the difficulties which you will meet in obtaining money to finance your operations."

"If, therefore, you must pay more for your help, in order to secure labor and keep the peace," continued the statistician, "do it by some kind of a bonus which will be eliminated automatically when the turn comes. In 1917 and 1918 you could pass the cost on to the public, but that time has gone. The public is not looking for goods at any price; it is looking for goods at a lower price, and if your goods are put into the market on the basis of increased production costs, they will not find a ready sale.

"Furthermore, investors are going to be extremely cautious about putting their funds into industrial enterprises. They are going to ask a great many perplexing and embarrassing questions. First among these is going to be the question as to how far the particular plant has got its production costs down to a permanent level.

"These questions are going to be asked strictly from the dividend-paying basis. On all sides the profit-making possibilities of productive enter-

General business according to the index of the Babsonchart has sagged slightly from exact normal reached last week. The current reaction of 2 per cent is due to increase in failures.

PEACE ON EARTH

"Peace on earth good will toward men" was sung by a heavenly choir to lonely shepherds on the plains of Palestine some 1900 years ago and the echo of that celestial chorus still is reverberating around the world. In every civilized tongue in every nation under the sun it is repeated as the first Christmas wish to the world.

But this time honored key-note of Christmas comes amiss to a world that is not at peace. In Europe war clouds are casting dark shadows over peoples weary of the red horror of strife. Greed, revenge, hatred fills the hearts of rulers and commoners as the world prepares to celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace. To them "Peace on earth, good will toward men" is a mockery.

This situation is deplorable but it should not be disheartening. The world is slowly throwing off the shackles of suspicion, of hatred and is moving slowly but surely toward that shining goal of friendliness, of cooperation and of good will. The process is slow. The world was not created in a day and it will require more than a day to change human nature. But the progress of the last 19 centuries gives us hope that the goal of Christianity which is peace on earth, good will toward men, is possible of realization.

We can hasten this great day by exemplifying in our daily lives the Christmas message from heaven. It should not be hard for us to live at peace with our neighbors and with our consciences and if we have this peace the good will toward all men naturally will follow. Let us all, as we wish our neighbors a Merry Christmas, resolve that this wish shall not be merely a phrase but a determination that in 1923 we will strive to bring about a peace and friendliness that will make Christmas a day of real rejoicing.

BETTER DIPLOMACY

If diplomacy is some time to take the place of war, with all that war implies, there will be need more and more for the best trained officials that nations can provide. Once it was popular to tell the public that the United States had no need for foreign representation. Those critics regarded it as a social superfluity. Therefore, it was all right to confer important diplomatic posts on men whose chief qualification was that they were wealthy and had been large contributors to the campaign chest.

Fortunately, the American attitude had begun to undergo a change before the World War. Events that have occurred since—and that are continuing daily—have emphasized the value of diplomacy of the better sort. Well trained ambassadors are as important as well trained generals and admirals. In fact, the diplomat may have it in his power to make the use of generals and admirals unnecessary.

Secretary of State Hughes is urging reorganization and improvement of the foreign service, not that it has failed, but because, as he says, the United States cannot afford to be represented abroad by any class of men short of the best. The Rogers bill, pending in committee, which would grade men under the rank of minister and permit the interchange of men from the diplomatic and consular services, was commended.

Such action, it is asserted, would provide opportunities for good men to be promoted and make it easier for the government to have the best trained men available at the place where he could best serve. Promotions to the rank of minister from the lower grades of the diplomatic service have not been rare, and in a few cases ambassadors have come up from the ranks. Mr. Hughes believes the more important places should not be regarded as closed to young men, who wish to make diplomacy a career, and who are willing to start at the bottom.

THE DEMAND FOR IMMIGRANTS

A movement is developing for a more liberal immigration policy. Its most active promoters seem to be leaders of industries wanting a larger supply of unskilled labor. Industry in general has begun to feel the labor shortage. Obviously a continuation of the present policy means competition for labor instead of competition for jobs, with higher wages and possibly a limit on industrial production. Farmers, too, would like more help if they could get the right sort. Women are beginning to think about a possible famine in household help. And many people who have no personal interest in the matter are in favor of admitting more aliens than are available at present, on the ground that it is better for the country.

All this effort, however, is probably destined to fail. There is some little chance of increasing the quantity of immigration in the immediate future, whatever may be done to improve the quality. The average citizen has experienced such a sense of relief since the alien flood subsided, that he doesn't feel like letting down the bars until he is sure the nation has assimilated the raw material already here. He is willing to make a little sacrifice, in comfort or prosperity, to insure a higher average of Americanization in this country. Organized labor is too conscious of its present advantage in the labor market to want a new influx of cheap, surplus labor.

A BOOKLESS REFORM SCHOOL

Investigation developed that an Ohio industrial school for wayward boys was without a library. There are now 1,100 boys from eight to twenty years old in the institution, but there is not a book except school books and such casual reading matter as may belong to some individuals. The provision of a suitable circulating library has been undertaken.

This is a remarkable state of affairs in a country supposed to be thoroughly imbued with the doctrine of libraries. It would be interesting to know how many other corrective institutions that ought to have a supply of good reading matter are without it. Perhaps our reform schools would be more successful in reforming if the subject of suitable books for the inmates received intelligent consideration.

FAT VERSUS HEALTH

A woman doctor who has joined the ranks of the health publicists warns her readers that the first great enemy to health is superfluous fat. A few of the diseases which she points out as more common to people of overweight than to the normal are diabetes, hardening of the arteries, heart diseases, apoplexy, kidney trouble, cancer, rheumatism, neuritis, and last but not least, flat feet.

It is true that thin people and those of normal weight sometimes suffer from these troubles, but less often than the fat fraternity, and their chances of recovery are better. This is a timely warning, especially for people who are approaching middle age, and particularly when winter encourages over-eating and under-exercising. Excessive fat breeds illness. Correct diet and exercise prevent fat. To keep well keep your normal weight.

"JAY WALKING" OFTEN NECESSARY

A campaign against "jay walking" has been inaugurated by the New York police. They say they will break up the practice which they hold responsible for a great many preventable accidents. The rest of the country will watch interestedly for results. If any good comes of it the New York system will be widely copied. But we have little confidence in the scheme. Other cities have taken first steps in this direction. Ordinances forbidding the crossing of streets in the middle of blocks are more honored in the breach than in the observance. The chief reason for this is that no sufficient pains are taken, as a rule, to make corner crossing safe and expeditious. Why a chicken crosses a street may still be a riddle, but human beings cross because they want to get to the other side, and they want to quick. Traffic control is better organized in New York than in any other American city, but it is not well enough managed to make "cutting" unnecessary. Where little attention is given by corner policemen to people "cutting," "jay walking" is often compulsory on those who want to get somewhere.

MOTORING OVER THE SAHARA

Considerable interest is felt in Paris and in the capitals of other nations with African possessions in the attempt that is to be made in a few weeks by three French army engineers to cross the Sahara desert in specially constructed motor cars. That the motor car has gone far to solve the problem of brief visits into the desert has long been established. The sand is usually hard enough to permit the cars to pass over it. But a 2,000 mile journey across the desert is made very difficult for the reason that the adventurers must take along enough gasoline for the whole trip, plus water and food, and covering, for we are told, that despite the tropical sun of midday, the mercury sometimes drops close to the zero mark in the Sahara at night.

It is a daring exploit that these men propose, for if they fail, they must perish and perish miserably. If the motor cars break down, or the gasoline runs out, they will never come back alive. And, after all, nothing definite will be accomplished. These three men risk their lives, but even though they succeed, only the highly daring will attempt the same thing after them.—LOUISVILLE TIMES.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

A normal individual has not only control over his voluntary muscles, making them rest or work as he wills, but he has a peculiar muscle sense which enables him to know exactly what position any muscle is in even though the limb is moved in various ways by another while the individual's eyes are closed or blindfolded. In locomotor ataxia this muscle is conspicuously feeble or lost, so that one of the earlier symptoms in many cases is inability of the patient to tell what posture a limb has been given in his eyes are covered. Loss of the muscle sense explains the peculiar clumsiness and difficulty in moving about in the dark which sometimes troubles a victim of locomotor ataxia long before he realizes that there is any serious trouble. It explains also the characteristic swaying of the patient when he closes his eyes while standing erect with feet together. It explains his awkwardness in finding the tip of his nose with his forefinger tip quickly and accurately with the eyes closed.

But the enfeebled muscle sense may be greatly strengthened by suitable exercise with the result that the individual's control over his muscular activities improves remarkably. It is a very suggestive fact, as pointed out by Dr. Maloney, whose work on muscle reeducation for lacerated muscles has been such a boon to victims of ataxia, that tabetics who are blind do not become so ataxic as tabetics who have good vision; that is, they preserve better muscle sense and their movements are not so uncertain or awkward. On his observation Dr. Maloney based his recommendation that persons with locomotor ataxia should carry out systematic muscular education exercises blindfolded.

One of the simplest and most helpful of these exercises consists in walking, or even in creeping on hands and knees up and down a strip of linoleum for a given number of times three times a day. As the blindfolded patient improves his performance, that is, learns through muscle sense and other than visual guidance to follow a fairly straight and unbroken course, the width of the linoleum strip is narrowed from time to time, until ultimately a strip eight inches wide can be walked on. Exercises such as these can be walked on, but hands may be worn on the knees for creeping. It is essential that there be no curious spectators or other persons present who are not in complete sympathy with the patient, and that the patient devote his thoughts strictly to his movements and strive to feel every sensation that accompanies the movements so that he may develop more muscle sense and suffer less from muscle anarchy.

Blame It On Me

My son is 16, blames me because he has a goitre and round shoulders. His goitre is small, but he is afraid it will grow big and he is doing all he can to get rid of it. I rub it with lard nearly every night. Can you give me some advice?—Mrs. F. G.

Answer—He should eat any available sea food, preferably fresh, but canned or salt fish if for a few days is not available. Something of this kind three days a week, a useful and comparatively harmless remedy which has prevented and cured mild goitres in many school children is sodium iodide. A tablet of three grains of this may be dissolved in the drinking water, say a quart, which the child takes each day, or preferably in two quarts of water if the child will take that much, and continued for a month. More than three grains daily would not be more helpful and might produce undesirable effects. Rubbing lard on a goitre is wasting food.

Wetting The Bed

Would you kindly tell me what I should do for my boy who is eight years old and still wets the bed. He is healthy and never wakes in the night unless I awaken him.—M. S.

Answer—The important thing is to discipline the boy, but never to punish or censure or embarrass him. Friendly discipline, if persevered with for a reasonable time, will overcome bedwetting in most cases. Detailed suggestions how to carry out will be sent on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.

Fifty Cents Per Mole

Could you please tell me any way I can remove small moles from my face? I have 37 of them. I want to a beauty specialist who wants 50 cents apiece for removing them. That seems pretty steep.—S. M.

Answer—The electric needle applied by a physician, not a "beauty specialist," is probably the best method. Carbon dioxide snow, also applied by a physician, is useful for destroying larger moles. Hair and deeply colored moles are successfully removed by radium treatment by a physician or surgeon. "Beauty parlors" surgery is expensive at any price.

A LOVERS' QUARREL

It takes real men to fight each other with undiminished love. This row between those eminent Kansas chums, Henry Allen and Bill White, is giving us a test of the human limit on that kind of thing. With his arms around William Allen White's neck, Governor Henry J. Allen had the former arrested for loose justice. With his lips to Governor Allen's cheek, Editor White dared the governor to come and finish the prosecution.

It was a wonderful example of the possibilities of brotherly love. In the ability of men to disagree amicably with their fellows lies our one prospect of making the world safe for democracy. Our races must learn to hear their differences without lynchings or law is a cancer. Our religious and national differences must exist without giving rise to marked demonstration and midnight whippings of our internal peace is gone. More difficult still, we must learn as a nation to let other nations differ with us. Till we can witness such differences without a wild passion to shoulder arms and shoot up the universe, there can be no stable international peace.

The friendly duel between Kansas' two great men has thus far seemed prophetic of a day when not only the lion and the lamb, but the Frenchman and the German, the American and the Jap, the Christian and the Jew can occupy the same township without a riot. The early long it is true that without a riot. The early long it is true that without a riot. The early long it is true that without a riot.

The reason that making of books has sent world dizzily into the skies is that all writers are driven mad by rejection slips before they get the public ear.—PITTSBURGH SUN.

Daily Editorial Digest

(Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
A Resume of American Newspaper Opinion.

LESSON FOR OTHER STATES IN ILLINOIS' REJECTED CONSTITUTION

Illinois' emphatic, almost contemptuous, repudiation of the new constitution just submitted to popular vote, while seemingly a local issue, has aroused widespread interest and editorial discussion throughout the country. The explanation apparently lies in the growing tendency, which the SAN ANTONIO LIGHT points out, to raise the cry, "Give us a new Constitution." "The fever of dissatisfaction with the old seems to be contagious," the LIGHT says. "The existing constitutions of various states are being assailed. Nowhere one might conclude after reading about the many projects of this kind, is everybody satisfied with the organic law of his particular state." And the Illinois experience teaches valuable lessons in connection with constitutional revision.

The most vital points in the lessons thus taught, in general editorial opinion, is, first, the fallacy of incorporating in the organic charter matters which should be left to statutory enactment; and, second, the fact that the better way to revise constitutions, after all, seems to be to simplify amendment of the old rather than to substitute an undigested and untried new.

"Illinois has proved again," the DULUTH HERALD announces, "that about the hardest job in American civic experience is to exchange old constitutions for new ones." The convention presented a document which the BALTIMORE NEWS believes was "a very good constitution," proposing "many excellent and needed reforms," yet it received an adverse vote ranging from 5 to 1 in rural districts to 30 to 1 in urban communities. No similar debate in popular rejection is recorded in the history of constitution-making in this country," says the ST. LOUIS GLOBE DEMOCRAT, and indeed, "an adverse majority so overwhelming" seems to the SYRACUSE HERALD "like a farcical sequel to the three years of discussion, meditation and hard labor devoted to the framing of the new organic law."

The personnel of the constitutional convention, popularly dubbed the "Con Con," was regarded as exceptionally competent, the SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) REPUBLICAN reports, but "it is not unlikely that it would have fared better at the polls if it had had a wiser representation of points of view." For "radical opposition seems to have been strengthened by the feeling that the convention was dominated by a class." Certainly such a body should not have produced a document that could go down to such ignominious defeat, the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE thinks, and it is almost ridiculous that "members of such a convention should shoot so wide of the mark that the vote should amount to repudiation of their sense and judgment."

"What ailed the proposed constitution," the DECATUR REVIEW wants to know. Many things, as the editors of the country analyze it. Primarily it "impressed people as something which had been carelessly and discreetly framed on them," according to the diagnosis of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE. "The idea of new taxes seemed the great mass of citizenship which pays the other man's taxes, the landlord's, the butcher's, and the baker's—but does not want to see a tax bill. The authority granted the legislature to reform tax laws was a powder keg. All citizens saw themselves paying something directly for the upkeep of the state. Nothing, as it were, doing." To the KANSAS CITY TIMES, also, that "one word" explains it—"taxation." "In an endeavor to please all factions it submitted, along with a provision for an income tax on intangibles, a provision calling for a tax on all net incomes regardless of size," and, as the ST. LOUIS POST DISPATCH says, "the objection of the man of small income may be alluded to, except may criticize and patriots may plead that when it comes down to the issue it is a rare man who will vote a tax on his own pocketbook."

Again, the CINCINNATI ENQUIRER relates, "it denied to the people the right of reviewing the acts of the General Assembly, and it sought to limit the representation in the legislature of the residents of Chicago." Since, as the SCRANTON TIMES points out, "Cook County (Chicago) already has one-half the population of the entire state," denying it the representation in the legislature to which its population entitled it "was denounced," according to the ST. JOSEPH NEWS PRESS, "as a step toward monopoly rule and toward a state toward autocracy." Finally, "when the leading jurists of the state were unable to agree as to what many of its provisions really meant," the average laymen evidently concluded that its adoption would mean endless litigation, and, in the words of the CHAMPAIGN (Ill.) NEWS GAZETTE he decided to "hear those who have, rather than fly to others that we know not of."

The main difficulty in the adoption of a new constitution, the WATERLOO TRIBUNE believes, lies in the fact "that there are so many different things for people to object to. The average voter reads a proposed constitution not to find good in it, but to find flaws in it." But back of that difficulty, deeper and more fundamental, in the view of the BUFFALO TIMES, is the complexity which confuses the voter. "He who runs may read is hardly too exacting a criterion by which to suggest the brevity, the clearness, which should characterize the basic law of any commonwealth," and one of the chief difficulties in recent innovations "is lack of understanding or recognition by constitution-framing bodies of the essential differences between constitutional and statutory law. If in constructing new constitutions

Town Of 3,000 Owns Railroad

(Will Barnes, in The Outlook.)
So they showed 'em all right. Five years ago the town issued $300,000 worth of handsomely engraved bonds, pledging itself for their payment, and with the proceeds built a road that climbed up the side of the deep canyon onto the level desert above and connected with the other line about 20 miles to the west.

Then Princeton celebrated in true western style. At last they were joined with civilization by bands of steel. Instead of a steam locomotive they secured a gasoline motor that is somewhat like unto a modern motor bus. It is provided with a regulation cowcatcher and at other times has been known to make the 20 miles to the junction in one hour flat. Also it carries about 20 passengers. Behind it lurches the oddest little box car ever seen on wheels, which carries the trunks and express matter. Moreover, that little old gas buggy has been known to haul 10 car-loads of cattle at one fell swoop—regular sure-enough cattle cars, be it understood, which they borrow from the railroad.

On these two vehicles the designation "City of Princeton railroad" is painted in large letters, and every resident is proud of the distinction borne by his home town of being the only town or city in the United States that owns a regular, honest-to-goodness broad-gauge railway.

The Question Box

Q. When were matches invented?

A. In the seventeenth century Godfrey Haukewitz of England produced a substance which would ignite by friction and into which splinters of wood were dipped. This is probably the origin of the Lucifer match. In 1805 a "phosphorus bottle" into which sticks or matches coated with sulphur were thrust was invented by a man named Chancel, of Paris. The first Lucifer friction matches to be commercially developed were made by an Austrian, named Treaschler, Vienna, Austria, 1833.

Q. Where is the largest riding hall in the world? R. P. P.

A. The one at West Point has this distinction. Built in 1911, its interior measurement is 125 by 565 feet.

Q. What are the laws of England with respect to labor unions and strikes? R. G.

A. Unions were legalized in England in 1824-25. In 1871 the Trade Union Act was passed which declared unions not to be illegal combinations in restraint of trade. This was followed in 1875 by the and Protection of Property Act which freed labor from conspiracy laws in their criminal aspects and gave some protection to union funds. In 1906 the Trades Disputes Act exempted unions from blacklists were made legal.

Q. How many people are drowned in a year? H. T.

A. The Bureau of Census says that the deaths from drowning in the United States in 1920 totaled 4,977, which is 527 per 100,000 people.

Q. How were the cards in a pack designated by the soldier who said they were his Bible? P. R. T.

A. Ace—one God; Deuce—Father and Son; Trey—the Trinity; Five—five wise, five foolish virgins; Four—Evangelists, Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John; Six—time in which the world was created; Seven—the Sabbath; Eight—eight people saved from the Flood; Ten—Ten Commandments; Queen—Queen of Sheba (to seek after wisdom); King—King of Kings (to pray to God); Knave—Devil; 365 spots in a pack—days of the year; 52 cards—number of weeks in the year.

"States were content to follow the pattern of the federal constitution and to confine themselves to fundamental," the CHICAGO TRIBUNE believes that "less difficulty would be experienced in obtaining favorable action." As its neighbor, the JOURNAL, explains it, "Today a constitution is supposed to be the repository for all sorts of ideas which, if really worth putting into effect would better be left to the legislature to enact. What seems important today may go out of fashion tomorrow and statutory law is easily changed. A system of government broadly prescribed, on the other hand, is enduring."

A PEACE WHICH WILL PREPARE WARS

Paris—Writing in the ECHO NATIONAL M. Andre Tardieu speaks of the follies of the Great Powers' policy in the Near East. He says: "The Lausanne Conference had not been sitting for long before it was obvious that we had returned to the situation of 1912 with all its consequences."

"The same French press which in September and October proclaimed that our policy of confident capitulation to the Turks had the unanimous approval of the Balkan states, prints now: 'The unity of the Balkan front in opposition to the Turkish-Bolshevik front.'"

"Thus events bear fruit according to the laws of history in the same way as body falls vertically to the ground."

"The Turks brought back to Europe by the panic agreement of the 27th Sept. last, did not wait long to exert still more."

"After Adrianople, Karagatch; after Eastern Thrace, Western Thrace—not to speak of the many other pretensions made at Constantinople, (the suppression of capitulations and financial control, prohibitive tariffs, expropriation of the capital and the Straits, etc.)"

"The result was not long in coming: immediately Jugo Slaves, Roumanians, Bulgarians and Greeks founded a bloc to say to the Turks: 'You will not pass here.'"

"And the great powers following their ridiculous part which they have made by their divisions could do nothing else but approve this firmness, which contradicts their weakness of the last two months."

"Let us put it more clearly. Suppose the Turks are resigned to be satisfied with the territories assigned to them by the treaty of Mudania; there still remains two camps opposed to each other."

"The 'dead who speak' will sooner or later make it their business to see that they disagree."

"Europe knows by experience what such conflicts cost: they will be due to the care and trouble of those who have 'ameliored' the treaty of Sevres."

"The history of the Turks in Europe is an ancient history which always recommends."

"When Mr. Lloyd George bet on the Greek horse, M. Briand and Poincare on the Turkish horse, they forgot this ancient history. When we are betting we often forget something."

"It was no less imprudent to push the Greeks on to the conquest of Anatolia, than to excite the Turks to take Thrace again."

"Today contact has been taken again on the Maritza whose water is red by tradition."

"The Balkan agreement—in accord with the Little Entente and supported by the Great Powers—can, for a time, stop the Turks on the line which they accepted when signing the armistice."

"But reprisals are to be feared on their part, where they are in the majority."

"In Syria, swearing on 'Turkish friendship' we abandoned Cilicia and gave over the keys of our house to the people of Angora."

"All over the Ottoman territory we have missionaries, professors, doctors, sisters of charity, businessmen who are turning towards Paris and asking anxiously: 'What is to become of us?'"

"It is much less easy to ensure the safety of the French and other European and Christian minorities than to refuse Karagatch to Ismet Pasha in the castle of Lausanne."

EXTRAORDINARY LIKENESS TO NAPOLEON

Berlin—The musician Boucher's resemblance to Napoleon led to many curious mistakes, a writer in the MORGENTHAU tells us: "The violinist Boucher is supposed to have had an extraordinary likeness to Napoleon, and during the 100 days he is said to have dressed exactly like the Emperor. He went about in the Paris streets and was everywhere taken for Napoleon and cheered the people by his friendly words. The papers of course related that 'the Emperor was everywhere.' At the battle of Waterloo, Boucher declared himself ready to ride at the head of an army corps to cheer on the troops. But when this plan was told to Napoleon he said: 'No that might be dangerous if I should fall. After the defeat the violinist proposed that he should be delivered up to the English instead of the real Kaiser. Boucher relates that later on he had the most remarkable adventure on account of his likeness. When he was giving a concert once in Brussels in 1819 the rumor spread that the Emperor had escaped from St. Helena and soldiers of the old guard spoke to Boucher and declared they were at his disposition for another war. Many of Napoleon's friends declared that the Emperor had escaped from St. Helena."

Elk Party Day Of Joy For Kiddies

Throng Of Needy Youngsters Sees Comic Movie And Receives Candy

At the rate of 40 laughs per child (and there were many more than that) more than 40,000 laughs rang out in Appleton theater on Saturday morning when Appleton Elks were hosts to 1,000 needy children at their annual Christmas party. The films were selected to please the juvenile audience and kept the children alternately in moments of great suspense and minutes of great hilarity. Harold Lloyd and Bebe Daniels were the principals in the comedy. A reel of Bob and Bill as animal trappers proved interesting to the children, who completely filled the theatre.

After showing of films Johnson, the magician entertained the children and produced candy for them. Each child was given a bag of Christmas goodies including candy and nuts.

A large percentage of the children were admitted by invitations which had been mailed to them. Many others came to the theatre for admission. The party proved a source of great enjoyment for the youngsters.

Children And Choirs Participate In Services On Christmas Day

Kaukauna—The various churches of the city will celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Christ with special services and programs Sunday. In South Congregational church regular services will be held at 11 o'clock Sunday morning and the Christmas program will be given at 7:30 in the evening by the Sunday school pupils and members of the choir. Miss Elizabeth Donaldson will render a solo during the morning services and two selections entitled "Hope's Guiding Star" and "O, Holy Night" will be rendered by the choir.

The two latter songs will be repeated during the evening program. Miss Elsie Look and Lyle E. Webster will render a duet, "Silent Night." The program will consist of Christmas songs, recitations, dialogues and instrumental selections. Soloists are Misses Elizabeth Donaldson, Elsie Look and Lyle Webster.

In Reformed church two large Christmas trees will be a feature of the program. A special service has been prepared by the Sunday school pupils and will be rendered at 7:30 Sunday evening. Music will be furnished by the church orchestra and the choir. Duets and solos also are included. The annual custom of bringing "white gifts for the King" will be carried out.

Services will be held at the usual time Sunday morning. Holy communion will be administered and new members will be admitted into the church. Morning services will be held Monday morning at which time holy communion will also be administered. The choir of Brokaw Memorial Methodist church has prepared a cantata entitled "Santa Claus Advice" which they will render during the evening services in Methodist church at 7:30 Sunday. The usual Christmas program consisting of songs, music, recitations will be given. Sunday morning services and Epworth league meeting will be held at the usual time.

No services will be held Sunday morning in Trinity Lutheran church. Christmas services, however, will be held at 7:30 Sunday evening. Music will be furnished by the Lyra orchestra. A program prepared by the Sunday school pupils will be given. "St. Frederick's Mass," by Joseph Gruber, will be sung by the Rev. F. X. Steinbrecher at midnight in St. Mary's church. Preceding the mass "Silent Night," by Frank Gruber, will be sung.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS AWARDED HONORS

Kaukauna—Annual high school "K" day was held Friday afternoon in the assembly room of the high school. An interesting program was rendered during which boys who have taken active part in athletics were presented with the high school letter.

Gordon Patton started the program by giving a history of the school's football squads since 1904. A record of this season's team was given by Lloyd McCarty after which Coach Waterpool was called upon to talk. "Who's Who on the football squad" was explained by Melbie Goldin. The honorary roll was called off by Wilma Klumb and Superintendent L. G. Schussman awarded the letters. Speeches by Captain Elmer Ott and Captain-elect Robert McCarty were received with enthusiastic applause.

The program closed with a few cheers by Olive Jacobson and songs led by Miss Johanna Hoffman. Those who received letters were Elmer Ott, Robert McCarty, Harold Frank, Frank Jirikowic, Elmer Grimmer, Sylvester Dix, Walter Kilgas, Amay and Joseph Rayorgreen, Russell Brenzel, Eugene Van Able, Harold Deurs, Milton Metz, Alfred Ristau.

C. C. T. S. students, the school is glad to keep in close touch with the neighboring county. Miss Mildred Getlinger has been out of school for several days on account of illness and Miss Myrtle Trentlage is out on account of sickness in the family.

On Wednesday evening of this week the students of the training school held a party in the gymnasium. This was one of the social events that help to make the school year pleasant.

On Friday the school closed for the Christmas vacation and the students and teachers left for various parts of the state. Miss Bronson will spend the vacation at her home in Milwaukee. Miss Carter at her home in New London. Miss Peacock at Merrill with a sister and family, and Mr. Hagman at home in Kaukauna. School will open for the new year on Jan. 2.

The fourth grade geography class under the direction of Miss Viola Berth visited the creamery on Tuesday and saw the process of butter making.

The Buick Seven Passenger Touring—$1435

On winter roads, the abundant power and smooth riding of the Buick seven passenger touring car gives a new confidence to cold weather motoring.

Close fitting storm curtains, provided with the special Buick weather strip to seal the joints, and that open with the doors, afford a snug comfort against storm and cold.

The long wheel base and the semi-elliptic springs with a new suspension, insure easy riding, made luxuriously comfortable by the wide deeply upholstered seats. Every convenience for effortless driving is at the driver's hand. Standard appointments include such refinements as sun visor, windshield wiper and rear vision mirror.

The seven passenger touring car maintains, in every particular, the traditional Buick excellence.

P. O. ON WINDUP OF RECORD MAIL RUSH

Mail Deposited Friday Breaks Record Of All Past
Years

Business was still humming at a merry tune in the postoffice Saturday, the last mailing day before Christmas. Both the incoming and outgoing mails were heavy and the former will continue at that rate until the last minute Saturday evening. On account of the volume of mail to be delivered, city letter carriers are required to make frequent trips between the postoffice and their routes. The busiest day of all will probably be Christmas.

The record set on Thursday for the number of first class mail articles that passed through the automatic canceling and counting machine, was broken on Friday. The number for that day was 52,215, which was nearly 5,000 more than the previous day. This number does not include the hand-stamped mail, which probably runs from 5,000 to 6,000.

A Merry Christmas to you all! The Good Fellows will wind up their annual Christmas effort for the poor today and they have made a remarkable showing. Contributions at 10 o'clock this morning totaled $1,289, about $43 more than last year's total but still $200 short of the $1,500 which Good Fellows set out to raise. It is probable there will be a few donations after the list for today is closed, and final publication of Good Fellows, together with a statement of the amounts which each of the five cooperating charitable societies received, will be printed on Tuesday.

These five organizations join with Appleton's poor in expressing their gratitude to the Good Fellows and hoping they will enjoy the prosperity which their generosity merits.

Whole City Wanted At Public Tree

Christmas Will Be Proclaimed
With Gorgeous Fete At 7 O'clock Tonight

"Everybody out," is the order of the day for the Community Christmas tree program in the traction company's lot across from the Sherman house at 7 o'clock Saturday evening. All arrangements for the program are complete. The high school chorus will assist with the carol singing and will be at the tree at 6:30. Bags of Christmas goodies have been provided for all the children who will attend and Santa Claus will give them out.

Dr. Earl Baker, who has charge of the singing has provided two trumpeters to make the singing more unified. When the trumpets sound, the audience will remain silent and the singing will begin. The words of three Christmas carols will be thrown upon a screen on a nearby building and Dr. Baker will use a fish pole with which to point out the lines that are being sung.

It is expected that there will be a record crowd at the community event this year. The weather is ideal for community singing and gatherings out of doors. There is very little interference with other programs since most of the church Christmas celebrations are on Sunday evening. Enough candy, nuts and popcorn balls have been provided for all the children.

The tree is in place and the power will be turned on late Saturday afternoon. Music will be furnished by several members of the high school orchestra besides a pianist.

Candies Will Herald Arrival Of Christmas

The custom of lighting candles in the windows on Christmas eve will be followed in many Appleton homes Sunday evening. The custom originated in Russia, the peasants and royalty, believing that by so doing they were lighting the way of the Christ child into the homes. Care will be taken, however, to prevent fires. No candle should be exposed to curtains, drapes, decorations or other inflammable material.

ZWICKER EMPLOYEES HAVE CHRISTMAS PARTY

Twenty-eight girls from Zwicker knitting mill had a Christmas party Thursday evening in Appleton Women's clubrooms. A program of songs, dancing, readings and a dialog was given by some of the girls, while others had charge of the refreshments. Games and Christmas stunts furnished entertainment and the exchange of gifts was a feature of the evening. The girls enjoyed themselves so thoroughly that they planned to get together often. They will have a meeting in about a month during a noon hour at the mill to plan for other social events.

Birthday And Holiday Afford Joy In Office

Friday was the birthday anniversary of G. D. Ziegler, newly reelected president of the Aid Association for Lutherans. In accordance with a custom in effect among the officers for several years it was up to him to furnish refreshments for the entire office staff. Ice cream and cookies were served.

The exchanging of Christmas presents on the part of the young ladies of the office was carried out Saturday morning. The parcels were opened one at a time by the recipients who assembled around a large table. There was a surprise in each gift which brought forth an outburst of exclamations.

HOPE TO OBSERVE WILSON BIRTHDAY WITH DRIVE ENDED

Mathie Expects To Complete
Badger Quota For Wilson Foundation

With the Wisconsin quota for the Woodrow Wilson foundation endowment only $2,500 short, Karl Mathie, chairman of the Wisconsin foundation committee, said this state would be ready to celebrate Woodrow Wilson day, Thursday, Dec. 28, with the remainder of the nation.

The quota of Outagamie-co was $500, but of this amount only $300 was raised and was turned over to the Wisconsin committee several months ago. Mr. Mathie is visiting the counties that failed to subscribe their full amounts, but so far has not consulted officers of the local organizations.

Thursday, Dec. 28, will be Mr. Wilson's sixty-sixth birthday anniversary and will mark the completion of the Woodrow Wilson foundation endowment fund of $1,000,000. Mr. Mathie has received a telegram from the national headquarters in New York informing him that plans for the national celebration will be forwarded to him in a few days.

It was suggested that Wilson day be made the occasion for public dinners or luncheons throughout Wisconsin, at which time all may join in felicitations over success in raising the funds for the foundation.

Mr. Mathie and William J. Ker-shaw, chairman for Milwaukee-co, are anxious to have Wisconsin maintain her reputation of the past in meeting her share in the building up of a great national movement, and hope by next Thursday to have raised the full Wisconsin quota.

Eight Tots In Children's Boarding House Possess 'Mama' Who Toils Hard

Mrs. Isabelle Kenyon Keeps
Unique Establishment—Finds Bringing Up Of Large "Family" Has Its Hardships

Eight little children from the ages of eight months to thirteen are shabby but happy in the home of Mrs. Isabelle Kenyon, 876 Richmond-st., who has a boarding house for children. Each of the eight children call Mrs. Kenyon "Mama" for she is the only mother that some of them have known.

For many years Mrs. Kenyon has been taking care of other people's babies and giving them a mother's love and affection, besides a place to sleep and plenty to eat. The theory of the boarding house is that the parents or parent of the children pay $3 or $4 a week for each child, but in practice, Mrs. Kenyon has to get along often without pay for weeks. One or two of the children have been abandoned by their parents and Mrs. Kenyon cannot bear to give them up. She has two adopted children of her own at the present time.

WORKS DILIGENTLY
The motherly and elderly woman whose life centers around the tiny boys and girls of other people is apologetic about the looks of the house and of some of the children. She was washing in the late afternoon when a reporter went to see the babies and four of the children were lunching in the kitchen. Mrs. Kenyon has five that are pre-school age and two girls and a boy going to school. The eight-month-old boy has been ill and his own mother could not take care of him, so Mrs. Kenyon has nursed him back to health.

The adorable baby smile of that tiny little tot tucked away in his crib is compensation for much of the hard work, Mrs. Kenyon says. Anyone who has children will not underestimate the amount of work eight children make for one woman, however.

Many friends of children and of Mrs. Kenyon have sent in old clothing for the children, but these must be made over. In order to keep the youngsters in clothes, Mrs. Kenyon has to do a large amount of sewing, which would not be difficult for her if she had the time. Before taking the children to board, their "mother" was a seamstress and then a nurse, two occupations which have fitted her for her present occupation.

BABIES NEEDED HER
When asked how she became the children's "mother" and started her boarding house, Mrs. Kenyon smiled a tired but happy smile and said: "My daughter-in-law was very ill and could not take care of her baby. They wanted me to have the child if anything happened to her, so they sent her here. I kept it until my daughter-in-law was better and took care of it. People heard of that, and somehow they came asking me to take care of their youngsters. I really didn't want to, but when a girl comes with a tiny baby in her arms and wants to leave it with you, it's pretty hard to say 'No.' Often, a father is left helpless with two or three children and I can not say 'No.'"

In the course of her experiences, Mrs. Kenyon has had some unfortunate experiences with ungrateful parents. One woman still owes her $154 for the care of a child, while debts of $30, $40 and $60 are common. Sometimes a mother will pay for a child regularly for a while and then leave it. Many children like that have been adopted from Mrs. Kenyon's home.

SOMETIMES IN NEED
Although this woman, who does it all for the children's sake, owns her own home, she finds it very hard to get along. Members of the German Ladies Aid society at one time installed a bathroom and kitchen sink for the children. Friends often help a little, but not enough to make the boarding house pay financially.

All the children seem to love their "mama," who says that once in a while, when a mother is situated so that she can care for her own child, the child refuses to go. One little girl is taken home occasionally to her grandparents, but she is invariably returned the next morning. They cannot do anything with her because she is so lonesome for the other children.

CARED FOR MANY
When asked how many children she has taken care of all together, Mrs. Kenyon stopped for a minute and then said: "I really have no idea. I am so busy taking care of the ones in the house, that I have time to keep track of those that have gone on. When one is taken away, I miss it dreadfully for a time, but there is sure to be another in its place." Many of the chores are pretty hard for a woman of Mrs. Kenyon's age. None of the little boys is old enough to carry water and chop wood, so besides being cook, wash woman, house-keeper and mother, Mrs. Kenyon has to be fireman and chore boy as well. With all her cares, she says she does not mind the noise the children make. While the reporter talked to her, the children would be playing 'apply' and then one would set up a howl. He would no sooner be at her to: "Look, mama, look. Look at mine, mama."

have a hurt or a need to be given attention.

The children came in from school with Christmas presents they had made as the reporter was leaving. There was much ado over opening them. Each one had to have something to look at and something to play with. As the reporter left, Mrs. Kenyon was sitting in the front room with one youngster in her lap and five around her clamoring for her to: "Look, mama, look. Look at mine, mama."

COAL PRODUCTION DECLINES

By Associated Press
London—Coal production in England has dropped 124,000,000 tons, about 40 per cent since 1913. The heads of the coal miners union declare that the decrease in the production is not due to the lack of supply, but to the fact that the mine owners are closing down entirely, partially as a means of forcing the unions to make concessions in the matter of wages and hours.

MARINETTE WRITER OFFERS SELECTION; HONORS FISCHER

E. E. Lund Praises Appleton Players—Calls Pigskin Chasers Best In State

Picking all-state high school elevens is no easy task, especially for this last season with a host of schools claiming at various times the honor of the state championship. For this reason sports writers have refrained from making All-star selections. However, there is one man who has tackled the task and seems to have done a fair job. He is E. E. Lund of Marinette. His mythical eleven was printed in the Marinette Eagle Star this week.

Lund's team in reality cannot be called an all-state team because he confines himself to elevens which came in contact with Marinette this fall. His selection could be dubbed as an all-eastern eleven.

HONORS APPLETONIANS
Briese and Bonini of Appleton are given places by Lund on the first squad. The only Appleton man to be placed on the second team is Fischer who is placed in guard position.

Center—Bonini, Appleton.
Guard—Long, Sheboygan.
Guard—Ewig, E. Green Bay.
Tackle—Kresky, Marinette.
Tackle—Strykowski, Marinette.
End—Newman, E. Green Bay.
End—Hiley, E. Green Bay.
Quarterback—Barofsky, Marinette.
(Capt.)
Halfback—Briese, Appleton.
Halfback—Lund, Marinette.
Fullback—Hanley, West Allis.

SECOND TEAM
Center—Palquist, Marinette.
Guard—Fischer, Appleton.
Guard—Sargent, Fond du Lac.
Tackle—Negoski, Marinette.
Tackle—Stamm, West Allis.
End—Zelmuller, E. Green Bay.
End—Saidel, Marinette.
Quarterback—Testwuide, Sheboygan.
(Capt.)
Halfback—Shaw, E. Green Bay.
Halfback—Novotny, Oshkosh.
Fullback—J. Kosky, Marinette.

BONINI FOR CENTER
The 1922 season brought out a wealth of good material among the centers. The best performers were Bonini of Appleton, Palquist of Marinette, Strykowski of Oshkosh, and Maffey of West Allis. D. Sargent of Fond du Lac and Uhl of Sheboygan. It would be hard, however, to keep such a tower of strength as Bonini of Appleton from receiving first consideration in an all-state selection.

Long of Sheboygan and Ewig of East Green Bay would form a sturdy and aggressive set of guards along with "Big Boy" center Strykowski. The center wall would be almost impenetrable, and straight backs would go to work, because of the drive possessed by such a trio when brought together in one "big time" aggregation.

KRESKY AT TACKLE
Among the tackles, Kresky, who captured Marinette's championship eleven was a stellar performer. As mentioned before, Strykowski of Oshkosh would make an excellent line tackle and the Sawdust City riddler is awarded that berth.

END POSITIONS
The two end selections are comparatively easy. We can think of no two wing men who would receive first choice quicker than Riley of East Green Bay and Newman of Marinette. These men are fast in running under punts, and in the aerial games are all that can be desired.

BAROFSKY FOR QUARTER
In looking over the list of quarter backs, unanimous first choice is given Barofsky of Marinette. He is the cleverest performer among the lot. His equal as a punter is not to be found on any team in Wisconsin.

BRIESE AND LUND
On this team, also, we have the two best halfbacks in high school circles of Wisconsin in the choice of Lund of Marinette and Briese of Appleton. The Appletonian has been a sensation throughout the season and has consistently and spectacularly tipped off yard after yard and added score upon score for the team he led through a successful season. Lund, of the state line aggregation, is perhaps without equal in the state in driving interference. He is one of Wisconsin's best backs as a defensive halfback.

HANLEY AT FULL
The fullback position is placed in the care of Hanley of West Allis. Although every team with men under consideration produced a good fullback, Hanley is the "plunging full" of them all. He is fast and sure on his feet, he drives into the line with vengeance, and he is a knacker of blocking and falling that gains him additional yardage each time he is called upon to carry the pigskin.

SIDNEY SHANNON GETS 252 ON Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS
Sidney Shannon, deputy clerk of the court, bowled Thursday evening the highest score, 252, recorded on the Y. M. C. A. alleys in more than two years. It was a practice game and he started out with eight strikes in succession which were followed by a spare and in the last frame he scored only seven pins.

BASEBALL LEAGUES PLANNING TO BURY HATCHET, REPORT

Effort Being Made To Bring Together Moguls Of Fox River And Wisconsin Wheels

Oshkosh—It is common gossip in sport circles here that an effort is going to be made in the near future to bury the hatchet in the baseball war which has existed between the old Fox River Valley and Wisconsin State leagues.

Feelers have been sent out by baseball boosters here to the various club owners, and it is said, that a pow-wow will be called, probably here, to discuss the peace terms.

BEEBE AT OSHKOSH
Fred Beebe has secured a controlling interest in the Oshkosh club from Frank Steinhilber, while Klevenson has purchased the Fond du Lac club from Sanders and his associates.

As the situation now stands, the Wisconsin State league has five clubs in good standing, Green Bay, Manitowish, Menominee, Appleton and Menasha. The Valley wheel franchises are held by Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan and Kaukauna.

According to the reported plans, the movement is to merge the two organizations and form a compact 8-club circuit.

ST. PAUL TRIMS NORTHWESTERNERS

St. Paul basketballers of Appleton evened scores with the leaders of Northwestern college of Watertown by taking the basketball games played Friday night in the gym by a score of 22 to 15.

Fourth annual game between the institutions and now each school has two games to its credit.

Herbert Voeks of the Appleton quint was the star with five baskets. Forward Redlin of the visitors shot four baskets. The score at the end of the first half was 12 to 9 in favor of the local team.

Gerhart Kubitz was referee.

PANCHO VILLA DECLINES TO WRITE MEMOIRS

Penn State College Vs. University Of Southern California Will Be Main Event On New Year's Day

Special To Post-Crescent
Pasadena, Calif.—Eyes of the nation's gridiron followers are centered on California, while those who are able financially are on trains or planning to take trains for the Golden state in order to attend at least one of the three intersectional football games to be held in less than a week.

Penn State and University of Southern California will meet here on New Year's day in the feature of the Tournament of Roses carnival. There is great interest being taken in the result, although both have been beaten by elevens in their respective sections.

ONE OF LEADING TILTS
This game is without doubt one of the leading intersectional classics of the country. Elevens in all sections look forward to being selected for the game because of the cordial treatment and pleasant trip. While Penn State has been beaten this year, the far eastern eleven is expected to make herculean efforts to go back home on the long end of the score.

Coach Hugo Bezdek won coaching laurels in this section when he was at Oregon and is more familiar with climate conditions than most coaches of invading teams in other years.

Coach Henderson of southern California appreciates the responsibility he is carrying. For that matter, so do the players and they will enter the New Year's day battle with a do or die spirit.

The hustling coach of the local team is sending his men through daily drills on Bovard field and indications are he will place a well groomed eleven on the field.

WATCH SAN DIEGO'S GAME
While waiting for the New Year's day clash, gridiron fans of the section, California particularly, are taking a keen interest in the West Virginia-Connazaga game to be played at San Diego on Christmas day. The Mountaineers are one of the undefeated elevens of the country and are coming west determined to keep the 1922 state crown. Reports have it that Coach Spears had groomed his men thoroughly before the squad left Morgantown.

Dr. Spears is the type of coach who believes in sending his teams into battle keyed to a high pitch. In order to arouse them he has held practice in snow, rain, and unfavorable weather. When his team arrives here on Friday it will be sent through a long drill on Bovard field, which Coach Henderson has so kindly turned over to the eastern aggregation.

At Palo Alto, where Stanford will entertain Pittsburg on Dec. 30, a great battle is expected, according to reports received in this section. The Stanford boys are hard at work under the tutelage of Coach Kerr, a product of far eastern football.

CAPACITY CROWD ASSURED
It will be the first intersectional game of note ever played in the northern part of the state, and is sure to attract a capacity crowd. Pitt showed to good advantage at the end of the regular playing season, its victories over Washington and Jefferson and Penn States being great achievements, considering the fact the team was beaten earlier in the season.

According to Prob. Mitchell of the tournament of roses committee, Penn state will arrive in Pasadena on Sunday afternoon. Intensive training will be the rule every day and the team will leave for home by way of San Francisco on the night of the game.

CHARGED TIME OUT
How many charged "time out" is a team entitled to in a game? Each team is entitled to three charged "time out." A "time out" is charged when the captain of a team so requests or when "time out" is ordered by the referee for the benefit of a team, or when a substitution except for injury requires more than 30 seconds or when a substitution for injury requires more than two minutes.

LENGTH TIME OUT
What is the length of time granted when for some reason "time out" is requested by one of the captains? In no case shall "time out" run some more than two minutes.

DOUBLE FOUL
Is the ball considered in play after a double foul has been called by the referee? When a double foul is called, "time out" is taken, and after the second free throw the ball is put in play at the center. It is not in play until the game is so resumed by the referee.

LIMITED SPACE
If, because of the limited space of the playing floor, a player getting the ball out of bounds hasn't enough room to properly place the ball in play, what is the correct procedure? In all such cases when a player gets the ball out of bounds, no player of either team shall be nearer than three feet to the player out of bounds. The referee on all such floors, aided by having a thin white line drawn in the court three feet inside the boundary lines.

Triumphs of M. Jonquelle

"The explanation is entirely clear," replied the Turkish Envoy. "The assassin went out in haste with the knife in his hand, and these blood-drops dripped from the point of it."

"That would be possible, monsieur," replied Jonquelle. "That might happen."

The Oriental stooped over a little and glanced along the floor.

"You have observed these blood-drops, monsieur? They are quite clear."

"I have observed them closely," replied the Prefect of Police. "There are seven of these blood-drops. They are about the length of a man's step apart, and they are each clearly visible on a white square on the floor. Your explanation seems admirable, monsieur."

Jonquelle took his hand from his pocket, revealed the thing upon which his fingers had closed when he sat down to this conference. He opened his hand so that the thing was visible. It looked like a little square box of some white substance as of marble or chalk or alabaster. It was not larger than two inches square. It was, perhaps an inch thick, made in two pieces. There was a tiny hole, like a keyhole with a beveled edge, on the line where these pieces joined. The box had a heavy rubber band about it. It lay for a moment exposed in the palm of Monsieur Jonquelle's hand.

"I have here," he said, "the thing that was the cause of this man's death. It was also the cause of his misfortune leading up to this fatal morning. It has been an obsession with him. In the German Empire he undertook this thing. His design was discovered, and he fled to Turkey. But he took his possession with him, and when the war was ended, he saw a method of getting an indemnity out of France with it—a method by which he could enrich himself at the cost of France. He worked out his plan carefully; he came to Paris; he got this house; he was ready to put his plan into effect when, unfortunately, for him, the mysterious visitor of last night appeared."

"Dernburg was shrewd, suspicious and far-sighted. But he was not slow and cunning, and he was not far-sighted enough. The stranger, who came to see him last night, knew all about him, knew every detail of his activities, knew the big plan that he had in mind. He had watched him, had followed his career. He knew the very day that he came to Paris. He knew his object in taking this empty house in the Faubourg St. Germain. He knew every step of the secret arrangements which Dernburg had perfected for the carrying out of his scheme, and at the opportune hour he entered this house. These are the facts, monsieur, which I have accurately ascertained, which are true beyond doubt."

"And so," he said, "this mysterious stranger, finally ran Dernburg Pasha to earth here and killed him."

The Prefect of Police arrested the man's discourse with a gesture. "You travel, monsieur," he said, "a point beyond my conclusions. Do we know that this midnight visitor is the assassin? We must consider the evidences as they are presented to us."

"The evidences are conclusive of this fact," replied the Envoy. "If circumstantial evidences can ever be conclusive of a murder. Here is the opportunity, the quarter, the dead man remaining in the library, blood-drops falling from the weapon on this drawing-room floor as he hastily crossed it, and the assassin over the wall of the garden."

"But, monsieur," said the Prefect of Police, "where is the motive?"

"Where is the motive?" The writer on the value of inductive evidences, in the investigation of a criminal case, told us that there should be time, opportunity and motive. The time, monsieur, and the opportunity are here, plainly indicated; but the motive? Where shall we look for that?"

The Oriental turned, as with an inspiration, in his chair.

"Why, monsieur," he said, "you spoke at considerable length upon the motive. You seemed to know it quite well. You stated, as you have indicated, the somewhat mysterious evidence of it in your hand."
